OTIS B. WEAVER FOR STATE SENATOR---HIS PLATFORM

Any person holding office by virtue of the suffrage of his fellow citizens becomes a public servant.

When I announced my candidacy for the state senate, I had settled the question fully that should I be elected all my energy and ability should be given to the performance of its duties.

The people will judge the character of my qualifications and pass on the worthiness of my career. They are to estimate the value of my services in the past to my party in behalf of my neighbors and to the proposed state. This done, they will look further and determine whether I am advocating those principles which if embodied into the laws of this state will more completely extend to them their exact rights, that of equal opportunity.

He who holds a legislative office is entrusted with powers of vital and far-reaching importance. Officers like sheriff and treasurer are important, but their duties are ministerial in character, carefully defined and limited by law. A member of the legislature, while governed to an extent by limitations of the state and Federal constitutions, is accorded still a very wide latitude of discretion and initiative in the performance of his duties. Such is the latitude of his powers and the far-reaching effect of his activity, that he should be imbued with genuine patriotism and with the profoundest love for his fellow man. Furthermore no man should be entrusted with such an office unless he has clear cut ideas and convictions on questions of public concern, and unless he has weighing on his mind and wishes to frame into law certain measures for the betterment of the people.

I heartily endorse the constitution for the proposed state of Oklahoma. A careful study of its provisions indicates to me the nature of the powers granted and of the demands and prohibitions made on the state legislature. Because that constitution is full and elaborate; because it minutely details the rights of the people, points out with more particularity than other state constitutions do what shall be done and what shall not be done, it is meeting with criticism from certain sources. But the criticism emanates chiefly from partisan republicans and those interests who yearn for special privileges and fear surveillance and regulation at the hands of the law as administered by honest officers in the effort to give all men equal rights and equal opportunity.

To be a good one that constitution had to be a long document. Likewise to carry out the lofty spirit and the mandates of that constitution it will be necessary for the first legislature, building upon the statutes of Oklahoma, to enact laws on manifold subjects and to go deep into legislative details.

Space and regard for the time of the reader forbids my treatment of anything like all the measures demanding the first legislature's attention. However, I want here briefly to mention some subjects for legislation which I deem of paramount interest to the people, and to indicate what I, if elected, would urge to be done.

ECONOMY IN EXPENDITURES.

The state of Oklahoma will start rich in aggregate resources, but comparatively poor in taxable wealth. Particularly in the beginning it behooves every department of the government to be economical in its expenditures. If elected a member of the first legislature, I pledge my utmost vigilance to see not merely that there is no wasteful extravagance tolerated, but further, that all appropriations shall be held down to the very minimum that will permit the running of the government machinery.

The legislator should be more careful in appropriating the public money than he would were it his own. Too often there is extravagance—to the depletion of the people's coffers.

TAX AND REVENUE.

The Constitution provides that the ad valorem tax shall in no event be more than 30 1-2 mills. It is to be desired that this maximum tax rate may never need be assessed and collected from the people of this state.

I believe in a conservative and economically administered government, but withal progressive; steadfastly bearing in mind that true progress should be synonymous with real prosperity, and that the only safe and desirable prosperity is that produced first and foremost among the laboring and producing people of our country.

The constitution permits the legislature to provide for taxes on license, inheritance, franchise, gross revenue, intangible assets, income and legacy, etc. A legislative enactment providing for the collection of taxes on these classes of interests would most substantially reduce the ad valorem tax requirement, which would be otherwise, and take from the rank and file of the people a burden and place it where it could more easily (and justly too) be carried.

Deliberately, with due regard for antagonistic interests, believing in the principle, I commit myself to the active and conscientious advocacy of such classes of taxes.

As corporate wealth increases and natural resources are developed, the rate of taxation to the moderate property owner will decrease and the expenses of the machinery of our government will in greater measure be properly transferred to the corporations. Heretofore in this country as in no other, the corporations have ruled and the people have paid the bills. But, now, since we have such a splendid constitution with its already famous provision governing corporations and its initiative and referendum feature, the people may more nearly rule and the corporations pay the bills.

I believe in the protection and encouragement of honest capital, but I am positive in the belief that all investment enjoying opportunities through governmental protection should pay to the government a commensurate return for such protection. Oklahoma only partly developed is greater in wealth of resources than the average state. Those of us who have lived in the Territory for some time and witnessed such marvelous development under most unsatisfactory conditions can readily estimate that now, when we are to have just political treatment, with what rapid headway there will be secured agricultural and commercial advancement. There is no need of burdensome taxes in this new state and will not be provided the citizens see to it that only honest, capable men are elected to office.

Weaver's platform will be concluded in Friday evening's News.)

CONSTITUTION SIGNING MAY BE HELD UP

Information received from Guthrie today says that undoubtedly a recess will be taken by the constitutional convention for ten days prior to the signing of the constitution. This is the opinion of some of the delegates who maintain it would be impossible to finish the work at this time for the reason that not enough sheepskin parchment is there on which to transcribe the constitution. President Murray stated that in his opinion no recess will be taken. A number of the delegates, however, have left for their homes and here to complete the body of the constitution, probably enough to complete it, together with the boundary reports, but there is not a sufficient amount on which to transcribe the new election ordinance which is now being drafted. This ordinance will include the description of every municipal township in the 50 unorganized counties, together with the names of three election commissioners and a clerk in each one of the counties, and, according to reports, it will be as voluminous a docu-

ROY HOFFMAN

For the United States Senate from the Oklahoma side of the state, subject to the decision of the Democratic primaries on May 23, 1907.

Owen Speaks to Voters in the Home of Furman.

Robert L. Owen of Muskogee, spoke as per appointment, at the court house Wednesday night on his candidacy for the United States Senate. The people of Ada are a courteous and an appreciative people. There was a large number of citizens present to hear this distinguished aspirant for senatorial honors; they heard him appreciatively and extended him the warm welcome due an Oklahoma citizen of his standing.

Of course there was a string tied to the welcome, for this is the home of Henry M. Furman, where naturally every voter is in profound sympathy with his candidacy for the United States Senate and knows that Furman and Owen can not be elected, that one or the other must fall. Considering the situation it was to the credit of our people that they extended Mr. Owen the warm welcome they did extend.

The speaker was introduced to the audience by Hon. Duke Stone, who made copious references to his worth and achievements as a citizen of the coming commonwealth.

Mr. Owen digs for the core when he talks. Three topics were by him accentuated: The need for the re-tariff; third, his own qualifications and ability, in the capacity of a United States Senator, to secure such remedial legislation.

For an hour and a half the speaker dwelt interestingly upon these topics. Particularly illuminating was his treatment of the Indian question, speaking from the standpoint of a man himself of Indian blood who had for twenty years been prominent in dealing with Indian affairs.

At the close of his address Mr. Owen was given an informal reception during which many of his hearers shook hands with him and expressed their appreciation of his remarks.

Married.

Ed Smith and Miss Belle Archer, both of Allen, were issued marriage license here yesterday. The wedding ceremony occurred at Allen. The contracting parties are highly respected in that community and will go to house-keeping at once on a farm. The News extends congratulations.

BLOOD-CLEANING TIME.

To make a splendid Blood Medicine, which every one should take at this time of year, mix: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime.

A well-known local druggist states that these are all harmless ingredients, which any pharmacy can supply at nominal cost.

This simple mixture, though easily prepared, is said to strengthen the kidneys, forcing them to filter and strain from the blood all impure waste matter and acids which causes Rheumatism, Nervousness, Skin Eruptions, Sores, Boils and Pimples and other effects of Unclean Blood.

Now is the time to rid the system of disease and build up the full blood count of 95 per cent

HASKELL FOR GOVERNOR--- LOOKS TO LABORING MAN

C. N. Haskell, one of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor of the new state of Oklahoma, was born in Putnam County, Ohio, March 13, 1860. His father was a cooper, and died in 1863. Young Haskell, in 1869, went to work on the farm of T. J. Miller, where he made his home till 1881. He taught in the country schools in the neighborhood, and during the last three years of his school teaching studied law. On March 7, 1881, he was admitted to the bar and opened a law office in Ottawa, the county seat of his native county. He resided in Ottawa twenty years when he removed to the Indian Territory. In 1888 he secured some large contracts on public works and engaged in the contracting business on a large scale in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana until 1901, when he secured some construction contracts in the Indian Territory that required all of his time until July, 1904. At this time he sold out his interests in the contracting business and established and became the editor of the New State Tribune, a weekly paper of large circulation throughout the new state. The first office he ever aspired to was delegate to the Oklahoma State Constitutional Convention, to which he was elected. In the work of the convention he was always present, and the record shows that he never missed a roll-call and never failed to vote on any question before the convention. Some of the things for which he worked most earnestly were:

The primary election for all officers of the new state.

The initiative and referendum.

The railroad commission and rate board.

The repeal of the fellow servant rule.

The prohibition of government by injunction.

A low rate of legal interest.

Perhaps more time was given to the last than any of the others mentioned for the reason that it required a greater effort to secure this provision, owing to the fact that there was a well-organized opposition. Mr. Haskell, long before he was elected a delegate to the convention, had, through his paper, the New State Tribune, advocated a low rate of interest for the farmers. Taking the position that, inasmuch as this is an agricultural state, the farmer, the backbone of its citizenship, and the country being practically developed so far as farming lands are concerned, the welfare of the state and its people demand that the farmer be supplied with what money he needs for the development of his farm at a low rate of interest. The new constitution certainly protects the farmer in this respect.

It provides, among other things, that in investing the state school fund and the proceeds of the sale of the state school lands (and these funds will amount to many millions of dollars), first preference shall be given to farm mortgages in this state, and that such mortgage notes shall always be accepted as collateral in all cases where bond, guaranty or indemnity is required. The farmer who finds it necessary to borrow money to improve his home will not be at the mercy of grasping banks and money lenders.

Haskell has said in his public addresses that he does not expect the support of the trusts, corporations or designing politicians, and that he would prefer not to have their support, because if elected he would be unable to return any favors to these classes. His strongest supporters are among the laboring and humbler class of citizens. His slogans are: "My support must come from the man who eats his bread in the sweat of his own face, and not in the sweat of his neighbor's face"; and "From the man who farms his farm, and not the man who farms the farmer."

Oakman News.

By the kindness of the editor I will endeavor to give to the readers a few facts from the very enterprising little burg of Oakman.

James West and family returned home Sunday after an absence of almost sixty days. Jim now affirms that he will remain home for two weeks or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morse of Francis were visiting friends and relatives here the first of the week.

Dr. Presnell and family, late of southwest Missouri, have located recently at Oakman. We are glad to welcome the doctor and his estimable family in our midst.

Duff Hunt of Denison, Texas, was visiting homefolks here last week.

John Sloan, formerly of Oakman, but later of Texico, N. M., was visiting homefolks here last week and has now gone to Hall county, Texas.

The people of Oakman are making preparations preparatory to the convening of the Singers and Teachers convention of Pontotoc county to be held here April 27-28. All persons interested in vocal music are cordially invited to be present. A good time is expected. Every one is invited to come and don't wait to get that old basket for the world is full of chicken at Oakman.

Mr. Shaw is very sick at this writing.

The farmers are progressing nicely with their crops in this section.

The children of the Oakman school gave a nice exhibition last Friday night.

Well as news is very scarce I expect I had better skiddoo for the present. Wishing The News abundant success.

BY GEORGE.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

OTIS B. WEAVER FOR STATE SENATOR---HIS PLATFORM

Any person holding office by virtue of the suffrage of his fellow citizens becomes a public servant.

When I announced my candidacy for the state senate, I had settled the question fully that should I be elected all my energy and ability should be given to the performance of its duties.

The people will judge the character of my qualifications and pass on the worthiness of my career. They are to estimate the value of my services in the past to my party in behalf of my neighbors and to the proposed state. This done, they will look further and determine whether I am advocating those principles which if embodied into the laws of this state will more completely extend to them their exact rights, that of equal opportunity.

He who holds a legislative office is entrusted with powers of vital and far-reaching importance. Officers like sheriff and treasurer are important, but their duties are ministerial in character, carefully defined and limited by law. A member of the legislature, while governed to an extent by limitations of the state and Federal constitutions, is accorded still a very wide latitude of discretion and initiative in the performance of his duties. Such is the latitude of his powers and the far-reaching effect of his activity, that he should be imbued with genuine patriotism and with the profoundest love for his fellow man. Furthermore no man should be entrusted with such an office unless he has clear cut ideas and convictions on questions of public concern, and unless he has weighing on his mind and wishes to frame into law certain measures for the betterment of the people.

I heartily endorse the constitution for the proposed state of Oklahoma. A careful study of its provisions indicates to me the nature of the powers granted and of the demands and prohibitions made on the state legislature. Because that constitution is full and elaborate; because it minutely details the rights of the people, points out with more particularity than other state constitutions do what shall be done and what shall not be done, it is meeting with criticism from certain sources. But the criticism emanates chiefly from partisan republicans and those interests who yearn for special privileges and fear surveillance and regulation at the hands of the law as administered by honest officers in the effort to give all men equal rights and equal opportunity.

To be a good one that constitution had to be a long document. Likewise to carry out the lofty spirit and the mandates of that constitution it will be necessary for the first legislature, building upon the statutes of Oklahoma, to enact laws on manifold subjects and to go deep into legislative details.

Space and regard for the time of the reader forbids my treatment of anything like all the measures demanding the first legislature's attention. However, I want here briefly to mention some subjects for legislation which I deem of paramount interest to the people, and to indicate what I, if elected, would urge to be done.

ECONOMY IN EXPENDITURES.

The state of Oklahoma will start rich in aggregate resources, but comparatively poor in taxable wealth. Particularly in the beginning, it behooves every department of the government to be economical in its expenditures. If elected a member of the first legislature, I pledge my utmost vigilance to see not merely that there is no wasteful extravagance tolerated, but further, that all appropriations shall be held down to the very minimum that will permit the running of the government machinery.

The legislator should be more careful in appropriating the public money than he would were it his own. Too often there is extravagance--to the depletion of the people's coffers.

TAX AND REVENUE.

The Constitution provides that the ad valorem tax shall in no event be more than 30 1-2 mills. It is to be desired that this maximum tax rate may never need be assessed and collected from the people of this state.

I believe in a conservative and economically administered government, but withal progressive; steadfastly bearing in mind that true progress should be synonymous with real prosperity, and that the only safe and desirable prosperity is that produced first and foremost among the laboring and producing people of our country.

The constitution permits the legislature to provide for taxes on license, inheritance, franchise, gross revenue, intangible assets, income and legacy, etc. A legislative enactment providing for the collection of taxes on these classes of interests would most substantially reduce the ad valorem tax requirement, which would be otherwise, and take from the rank and file of the people a burden and place it where it could more easily (and justly too) be carried.

Deliberately, with due regard for antagonistic interests, believing in the principle, I commit myself to the active and conscientious advocacy of such classes of taxes.

As corporate wealth increases and natural resources are developed, the rate of taxation to the moderate property owner will decrease and the expenses of the machinery of our government will in greater measure be properly transferred to the corporations. Heretofore in this country as in no other, the corporations have ruled and the people have paid the bills. But, now, since we have such a splendid constitution with its already famous provision governing corporations and its initiative and referendum feature, the people may more nearly rule and the corporations pay the bills.

I believe in the protection and encouragement of honest capital, but I am positive in the belief that all investment enjoying opportunities through governmental protection should pay to the government a commensurate return for such protection. Oklahoma only partly developed is greater in wealth of resources than the average state. Those of us who have lived in the Territory for some time and witnessed such marvelous development under most unsatisfactory conditions can readily estimate that now, when we are to have just political treatment, with what rapid headway there will be secured agricultural and commercial advancement. There is no need of burdensome taxes in this new state and will not be provided the citizens see to it that only honest, capable men are elected to office.

Weaver's platform will be concluded in Thursday evening's News.)

CONSTITUTION SIGNING MAY BE HELD UP

Information received from Guthrie today says that undoubtedly a recess will be taken by the constitutional convention for ten days prior to the signing of the constitution. This is the opinion of some of the delegates who maintain it would be impossible to finish the work at this time for the reason that not enough sheepskin parchment is there on which to transcribe the constitution. President Murray stated that in his opinion no recess will be taken. A number of the delegates, however, have left for their homes and here to complete the body of the constitution, probably enough to complete it, together with the boundary reports, but there is not a sufficient amount on which to transcribe the new election ordinance which is now being drafted. This ordinance will include the description of every municipal township in the 50 unorganized counties, together with the names of three election commissioners and a clerk in each one of the counties, and, according to reports, it will be as voluminous a document

For the United States Senate from the Oklahoma side of the state, subject to the decision of the Democratic primaries on May 23 1907

Owen Speaks to Voters in the Home of Furman.

Robert L. Owen of Muskogee, spoke as per appointment, at the court house Wednesday night on his candidacy for the United States Senate. The people of Ada are a courteous and an appreciative people. There was a large number of citizens present to hear this distinguished aspirant for senatorial honors, they heard him appreciatively and extended him the warm welcome due an Oklahoma citizen of his standing.

Of course there was a string tied to the welcome, for this is the home of Henry M. Furman, where naturally every voter is in profound sympathy with his candidacy for the United States Senate and knows that Furman and Owen can not be elected, that one or the other must fall. Considering the situation it was to the credit of our people that they extended Mr. Owen the warm welcome they did extend.

The speaker was introduced to the audience by Hon. Duke Stone, who made copious references to his worth and achievements as a citizen of the coming commonwealth.

Mr. Owen digressed for the core when he talks. Three topics were by him accentuated: The need for the re-tariff third, his own qualifications and ability, in the capacity of a United States Senator, to secure such remedial legislation.

For an hour and a half the speaker dwelt interestingly upon these topics. Particularly illuminating was his treatment of the Indian question speaking from the standpoint of a man himself of Indian blood who had for twenty years been prominent in dealing with Indian affairs.

At the close of his address Mr. Owen was given an informal reception during which many of his hearers shook hands with him and expressed their appreciation of his remarks.

Married.

Ed Smith and Miss Belle Archer, both of Allen, were issued marriage license here yesterday. The wedding ceremony occurred at Allen. The contracting parties are highly respected in that community and will go to house-keeping at one on a farm. The News extends congratulations.

BLOOD-CLEANING TIME

To make a splendid Blood Medicine, which every one should take at this time of year, mix Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime.

A well-known local druggist states that these are all harmless ingredients, which any pharmacy can supply at nominal cost.

This simple mixture, though easily prepared, is said to strengthen the kidneys, forcing them to filter and strain from the blood all impure waste matter and acids which causes Rheumatism, Nervousness, Skin Eruptions, Sores, Bolls and Pimples and other effects of Unclean Blood.

Now is the time to rid the system of disease and build up the blood.

VIRTUE IN THE EELSKIN.

Worth Trying by Those Who Suffer from Rheumatism.

"Why don't you get an eelskin?" said the old "vegetable lady," as the master at one of our largest markets paused in front of her stand and rubbed his knee, giving utterance to a half-smothered exclamation that rhymed with clam, ham, and words like those. "What good would an eelskin do?" growled the market-master. "Don't you know," was the answer, "that an eelskin is the very best thing you can try for rheumatism? Some folks think that the eel, being naturally limber and quick in its motions, gives a virtue to the skin, and this makes a rheumatic joint as limber as the eel itself; but I guess there isn't much in that notion. It's a kind of magic, you know. But the eelskin really does do good, and the way it does it is this: The eelskin is just like leather, only not so thick, and it feels like a piece of tough kid that has been soaked in oil. Now, you wrap the eelskin round your knee and tie it on, or pin it on, it doesn't matter which, and it keeps the joint warm and the oil makes the skin soft, and after awhile your rheumatism is gone. People laugh at the idea and call it an old woman's notion; but some old women's notions are pretty good."

To the Voters of Ada and Pontotoc County.

At a recent meeting of the Roff City School Board I was unanimously elected superintendent of the city schools of Roff for next session. This does not effect my race for superintendent of schools of Pontotoc county. We shall put our shoulders together to make this county the greatest educational center in the new state.

HASKELL FOR GOVERNOR--- LOOKS TO LABORING MAN

C. N. Haskell one of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor of the new state of Oklahoma, was born in Putnam County, Ohio March 13, 1860. His father was a cooper, and died in 1869. Young Haskell, in 1869, went to work on the farm of T. J. Miller where he made his home till 1881. He taught in the country schools in the neighborhood, and during the last three years of his school teaching studied law. On March 7, 1881, he was admitted to the bar and opened a law office in Ottawa, the county seat of his native county. He resided in Ottawa twenty years when he removed to the Indian Territory. In 1888 he secured some large contracts on public works and engaged in the contracting business on a large scale in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana until 1901 when he secured some construction contracts in the Indian Territory that required all of his time until July, 1904. At this time he sold out his interests in the contracting business and established and became the editor of the New State Tribune, a weekly paper of large circulation throughout the new state.

The first office he ever aspired to was delegate to the Oklahoma State Constitutional Convention, to which he was elected. In the work of the convention he was always present, and the record shows that he never missed a roll call and never failed to vote on any question before the convention. Some of the things for which he worked most earnestly were:

- The primary election for all officers of the new state.
- The initiative and referendum.
- The railroad commission and rate board.
- The repeal of the fellow servant rule.
- The prohibition of government by injunction.
- A low rate of legal interest.

Perhaps more time was given to the last than any of the others mentioned for the reason that it required a greater effort to secure this provision, owing to the fact that there was a well organized opposition. Mr. Haskell, long before he was elected a delegate to the convention, had, through his paper, the New State Tribune, advocated a low rate of interest for the farmers. Taking the position that, inasmuch as this is an agricultural state, the farmer, the backbone of its citizenship, and the country being practically developed so far as farming lands are concerned, the welfare of the state and its people demand that the farmer be supplied with what money he needs for the development of his farm at a low rate of interest. The new constitution certainly protects the farmer in this respect.

It provides among other things, that in investing the state school fund and the proceeds of the sale of the state school lands (and these funds will amount to many millions of dollars) first preference shall be given to farm mortgages in this state, and that such mortgage notes shall always be accepted as collateral in all cases where bond guaranty or indemnity is required. The farmer who finds it necessary to borrow money to improve his home will not be at the mercy of grasping banks and money lenders.

Haskell has said in his public addresses that he does not expect the support of the trusts, corporations or designing politicians, and that he would prefer not to have their support, because if elected he would be unable to return any favors to these classes. His strongest supporters are among the laboring and humbler class of citizens. His slogans are "My support must come from the man who eats his bread in the sweat of his own face and not in the sweat of his neighbor's face", and "From the man who farms his farm and not the man who farms the farmer."

Oakman News.

By the kindness of the editor I will endeavor to give to the readers a few facts from the very enterprising little burg of Oakman.

James West and family returned home Sunday after an absence of almost sixty days. Jim now affirms that he will remain home for two weeks or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morse of Francis were visiting friends and relatives here the first of the week.

Dr. Presnell and family, late of southwest Missouri, have located recently at Oakman. We are glad to welcome the doctor and his estimable family in our midst.

Duff Hunt of Denison, Texas was visiting homefolks here last week. John Sloan formerly of Oakman, but later of Texaco N. M. was visiting homefolks here last week and has now gone to Hall county, Texas.

The people of Oakman are making preparations preparatory to the convening of the Singers and Teachers convention of Pontotoc county to be held here April 27-28. All persons interested in vocal music are cordially invited to be present. A good time is expected. Every one is invited to come and don't want to get that old basket for the world is full of chicken at Oakman.

Mr. Shaw is very sick at this writing. The farmers are progressing nicely with their crops in this section.

The children of the Oakman school gave a nice exhibition last Friday night.

Well as news is very scarce I expect I had better skidoo for the present. Wishing The News abundant success.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

OTIS B. WEAVER FOR STATE SENATOR--HIS PLATFORM

Any person holding office by virtue of the suffrage of his fellow citizens becomes a public servant.

When I announced my candidacy for the state senate, I had settled the question fully that should I be elected all my energy and ability should be given to the performance of its duties.

The people will judge the character of my qualifications and pass on the worthiness of my career. They are to estimate the value of my services in the past to my party in behalf of my neighbors and to the proposed state. This done, they will look further and determine whether I am advocating those principles which if embodied into the laws of this state will more completely extend to them their exact rights, that of equal opportunity.

He who holds a legislative office is entrusted with powers of vital and far-reaching importance. Officers like sheriff and treasurer are important, but their duties are ministerial in character, carefully defined and limited by law. A member of the legislature, while governed to an extent by limitations of the state and Federal constitutions, is accorded still a very wide latitude of discretion and initiative in the performance of his duties. Such is the latitude of his powers and the far-reaching effect of his activity, that he should be imbued with genuine patriotism and with the profoundest love for his fellow man. Furthermore no man should be entrusted with such an office unless he has clear cut ideas and convictions on questions of public concern, and unless he has weighing on his mind and wishes to frame into law certain measures for the betterment of the people.

I heartily endorse the constitution for the proposed state of Oklahoma. A careful study of its provisions indicates to me the nature of the powers granted and of the demands and prohibitions made on the state legislature. Because that constitution is full and elaborate; because it minutely details the rights of the people, points out with more particularity than other state constitutions do what shall be done and what shall not be done, it is meeting with criticism from certain sources. But the criticism emanates chiefly from partisan republicans and those interests who yearn for special privileges and fear surveillance and regulation at the hands of the law as administered by honest officers in the effort to give all men equal rights and equal opportunity.

To be a good one that constitution had to be a long document. Likewise to carry out the lofty spirit and the mandates of that constitution it will be necessary for the first legislature, building upon the statutes of Oklahoma, to enact laws on manifold subjects and to go deep into legislative details.

Space and regard for the time of the reader forbids my treatment of anything like all the measures demanding the first legislature's attention. However, I want here briefly to mention some subjects for legislation which I deem of paramount interest to the people, and to indicate what I, if elected, would urge to be done.

ECONOMY IN EXPENDITURES.
The state of Oklahoma will start rich in aggregate resources, but comparatively poor in taxable wealth. Particularly in the beginning, it behooves every department of the government to be economical in its expenditures. If elected a member of the first legislature, I pledge my utmost vigilance to see not merely that there is no wasteful extravagance tolerated, but further, that all appropriations shall be held down to the very minimum that will permit the running of the government machinery.

The legislator should be more careful in appropriating the public money than he would were it his own. Too often there is extravagance—to the depletion of the people's coffers.

TAX AND REVENUE.

The Constitution provides that the ad valorem tax shall in no event be more than 30 1-2 mills. It is to be desired that this maximum tax rate may never need be assessed and collected from the people of this state.

I believe in a conservative and economically administered government, but withal progressive; steadfastly bearing in mind that true progress should be synonymous with real prosperity, and that the only safe and desirable prosperity is that produced first and foremost among the laboring and producing people of our country.

The constitution permits the legislature to provide for taxes on license, inheritance, franchise, gross revenue, intangible assets, income and legacy, etc. A legislative enactment providing for the collection of taxes on these classes of interests would most substantially reduce the ad valorem tax requirement, which would be otherwise, and take from the rank and file of the people a burden and place it where it could more easily (and justly too) be carried.

Deliberately, with due regard for antagonistic interests, believing in the principle, I commit myself to the active and conscientious advocacy of such classes of taxes.

As corporate wealth increases and natural resources are developed, the rate of taxation to the moderate property owner will decrease and the expenses of the machinery of our government will in greater measure be properly transferred to the corporations. Heretofore in this country as in no other, the corporations have ruled and the people have paid the bills. But, now, since we have such a splendid constitution with its already famous provision governing corporations and its initiative and referendum feature, the people may more nearly rule and the corporations pay the bills.

I believe in the protection and encouragement of honest capital, but I am positive in the belief that all investment enjoying opportunities through governmental protection should pay to the government a commensurate return for such protection. Oklahoma only partly developed is greater in wealth of resources than the average state. Those of us who have lived in the Territory for some time and witnessed such marvelous development under most unsatisfactory conditions can readily estimate that now, when we are to have just political treatment, with what rapid headway there will be secured agricultural and commercial advancement. There is no need of burdensome taxes in this new state and will not be provided the citizens see to it that only honest, capable men are elected to office.

Weaver's platform will be concluded in Thursday evening's News.

CONSTITUTION SIGNING MAY BE HELD UP

Information received from Guthrie today says that undoubtedly a recess will be taken by the constitutional convention for ten days prior to the signing of the constitution. This is the opinion of some of the delegates who maintain it would be impossible to finish the work at this time for the reason that not enough sheepskin parchment is there on which to transcribe the constitution. President Murray stated that in his opinion no recess will be taken. A number of the delegates, however, have left for their homes and here to complete the body of the constitution, probably enough to complete it, together with the boundary reports, but there is not a sufficient amount on which to transcribe the new election ordinance which is now being drafted. This ordinance will include the description of every municipal township in the 50 unorganized counties, together with the names of three election commissioners and a clerk in each one of the counties, and, according to reports, it will be as voluminous a document

For the United States Senate from the Oklahoma side of the state, subject to the decision of the Democratic primaries on May 23 1907

Owen Speaks to Voters in the Home of Furman.

Robert L. Owen of Muskogee, spoke as per appointment, at the court house Wednesday night on his candidacy for the United States Senate. The people of Ada are a courteous and an appreciative people. There was a large number of citizens present to hear this distinguished aspirant for senatorial honors, they heard him appreciatively and extended him the warm welcome due an Oklahoma citizen of his standing.

Of course there was a string tied to the welcome, for this is the home of Henry M. Furman, where naturally every voter is in profound sympathy with his candidacy for the United States Senate and knows that Furman and Owen can not be elected, that one or the other must fall. Considering the situation it was to the credit of our people that they extended Mr. Owen the warm welcome they did extend.

The speaker was introduced to the audience by Hon. Duke Stone, who made copious references to his worth and achievements as a citizen of the coming commonwealth.

Mr. Owen digressed for the core when he talks. Three topics were by him accentuated: The need for the re-tariff third, his own qualifications and ability, in the capacity of a United States Senator, to secure such remedial legislation.

For an hour and a half the speaker dwelt interestingly upon these topics. Particularly illuminating was his treatment of the Indian question speaking from the standpoint of a man himself of Indian blood who had for twenty years been prominent in dealing with Indian affairs.

At the close of his address Mr. Owen was given an informal reception during which many of his hearers shook hands with him and expressed their appreciation of his remarks.

Married.

Ed Smith and Miss Belle Archer, both of Allen, were issued marriage license here yesterday. The wedding ceremony occurred at Allen. The contracting parties are highly respected in that community and will go to house-keeping at one on a farm. The News extends congratulations.

BLOOD-CLEANING TIME

To make a splendid Blood Medicine, which every one should take at this time of year, mix Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime.

A well-known local druggist states that these are all harmless ingredients, which any pharmacy can supply at nominal cost.

This simple mixture, though easily prepared, is said to strengthen the kidneys, forcing them to filter and strain from the blood all impure waste matter and acids which causes Rheumatism, Nervousness, Skin Eruptions, Sores, Bolls and Pimples and other effects of Unclean Blood.

Now is the time to rid the system of disease and build up the blood.

VIRTUE IN THE EELSKIN.

Worth Trying by Those Who Suffer from Rheumatism.

"Why don't you get an eel-skin?" said the old "vegetable lady," as the master at one of our largest markets paused in front of her stand and rubbed his knee, giving utterance to a half-muttered exclamation that rained with clam, ham and words like those. "What good would an eel-skin do?" growled the market-master. "Don't you know," was the answer, "that an eel-skin is the very best thing you can try for rheumatism?" Some folks think that the eel, being natural, is limber and quick in its motions, gives a virtue to the skin, and this makes a rheumatic joint as limber as the eel itself; but I guess there isn't much in that notion. It's a kind of magic, you know. "But the eel-skin really does do good, and the way it does it is this: The eel-skin is just like leather, only not so thick, and it feels like a piece of tough kid that has been soaked in oil. Now, you wrap the eel-skin round your knee and tie it on, or pin it on, it doesn't matter which, and it keeps the joint warm and the oil makes the skin soft, and after awhile your rheumatism is gone. People laugh at the idea and call it an old woman's notion, but some old women's notions are pretty good."

To the Voters of Ada and Pontotoc County.

At a recent meeting of the Roff City School Board I was unanimously elected superintendent of the city schools of Roff for next session. This does not effect my race for superintendent of schools of Pontotoc county. Should I get the nomination on the 23rd of May I shall resign the superintendency of Roff schools and devote every interest to the county schools. We shall put our shoulders together to make this county the greatest educational center in the new state. Respectfully, T. F. PIERCE. 23-dlt-wlt

HASKELL FOR GOVERNOR— LOOKS TO LABORING MAN

C. N. Haskell one of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor of the new state of Oklahoma, was born in Putnam County, Ohio March 13, 1860. His father was a cooper, and died in 1862. Young Haskell, in 1869, went to work on the farm of T. J. Miller where he made his home till 1881. He taught in the country schools in the neighborhood, and during the last three years of his school teaching studied law. On March 7, 1881, he was admitted to the bar and opened a law office in Ottawa, the county seat of his native county. He resided in Ottawa twenty years when he removed to the Indian Territory. In 1893 he secured some large contracts on public works and engaged in the contracting business on a large scale in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana until 1901 when he secured some construction contracts in the Indian Territory that required all of his time until July, 1904. At this time he sold out his interests in the contracting business and established and became the editor of the New State Tribune, a weekly paper of large circulation throughout the new state.

The first office he ever aspired to was delegate to the Oklahoma State Constitutional Convention, to which he was elected. In the work of the convention he was always present, and the record shows that he never missed a roll call and never failed to vote on any question before the convention. Some of the things for which he worked most earnestly were:

- The primary election for all officers of the new state.
- The initiative and referendum.
- The railroad commission and rate board.
- The repeal of the fellow servant rule.
- The prohibition of government by injunction.
- A low rate of legal interest.

Perhaps more time was given to the last than any of the others mentioned for the reason that it required a greater effort to secure this provision, owing to the fact that there was a well organized opposition. Mr. Haskell, long before he was elected a delegate to the convention, had, through his paper, the New State Tribune, advocated a low rate of interest for the farmers. Taking the position that, inasmuch as this is an agricultural state, the farmer, the backbone of its citizenship, and the country being practically developed so far as farming lands are concerned, the welfare of the state and its people demand that the farmer be supplied with what money he needs for the development of his farm at a low rate of interest. The new constitution certainly protects the farmer in this respect.

It provides, among other things, that in investing the state school fund and the proceeds of the sale of the state school lands (and these funds will amount to many millions of dollars) first preference shall be given to farm mortgages in this state, and that such mortgage notes shall always be accepted as collateral in all cases where bond guaranty or indemnity is required. The farmer who finds it necessary to borrow money to improve his home will not be at the mercy of grasping banks and money lenders.

Haskell has said in his public addresses that he does not expect the support of the trusts, corporations or designing politicians, and that he would prefer not to have their support, because if elected he would be unable to return any favors to those classes. His strongest supporters are among the laboring and humbler class of citizens. His slogans are "My support must come from the man who eats his bread in the sweat of his own face and not in the sweat of his neighbor's face," and "From the man who farms his farm and not the man who farms the farmer."

Oakman News.

By the kindness of the editor I will endeavor to give to the readers a few facts from the very enterprising little burg of Oakman.

James West and family returned home Sunday after an absence of almost sixty days. Jim now affirms that he will remain home for two weeks or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morse of Francis, were visiting friends and relatives here the first of the week.

Dr. Presnell and family, late of southwest Missouri, have located recently at Oakman. We are glad to welcome the doctor and his estimable family in our midst.

Duff Hunt of Denison, Texas was visiting homefolks here last week.

John Sloan formerly of Oakman, but later of Texico N. M. was visiting homefolks here last week and has now gone to Hall county, Texas.

The people of Oakman are making preparations preparatory to the convening of the Singers and Teachers convention of Pontotoc county to be held here April 27-28. All persons interested in vocal music are cordially invited to be present. A good time is expected. Every one is invited to come and don't wait to get that old basket for the work is full of chicken at Oakman.

Mr. Shaw is very sick at this writing.

The farmers are progressing nicely with their crops in this section.

The children of the Oakman school gave a nice exhibition last Friday night.

Well as news is very scarce I expect I had better skidoo for the present. Wishing The News abundant success.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the controller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.
